It is midpoint of yet another year (2023) and we would like to take this opportunity to give you a recap on what has transpired so far.

Here's a little sneak-peak. We recently concluded Internet Safety Month in June, which we kicked off with training workshop on Online Safety and Security (Cohort 2).

Recent statistics indicate that more than 90% of all cyber-attacks today begin with phishing attempts and such incidents are anticipated to increase in sophistication in the near future.

On that account, we amplify our call for both individual and collective understanding, responsibility and daily action towards the utilization of best digital safety practices.

It's our hope that you find this digest both informative and enjoyable to read. And, we stay grateful to everyone that continues to support our work always.
